Author/health proponent Mario Fortunato devotes his time to the research of health related topics and nutrition and has many published titles both in print and digital formats like the Mediterranean Diet Cookbook for Healthy Weight Loss, Clean Eating Salad Recipes for Weight Loss, Healing Foods and many others. He is passionate about all areas that focus on health development and the improvement of lifestyle and wellbeing through natural methods. As he states he suffered from obesity for years and now has turned that around so successfully that he is now an authority on nutrition and health topics in general. He opens his book with the following overview: "Clean eating basically means eating foods closest to their most natural and whole form that is free of additives, preservatives or anything artificial. With a clean diet you want to consume foods that are minimally treated, if treated at all. The concept is that food must not come from a box, package, mix or bag. Therefore, food comes from nature and not from a business. If you make a purchase of prepackaged foods, then it should have minimal ingredients, and you should be able to pronounce them. A good rule of thumb is that the more ingredients a food has the less pure it is. Although it may seem to be just another fad diet, "clean eating" is actually a philosophy that motivates people to become aware of the foods we eat. The central principle is to cut out all the processed foods and use whole and unadulterated foods such as vegetables, fruits, legumes and whole grains instead. Some clean eaters even eliminate dairy and / or meat.
